RICHMOND

In a game played on the Richmond field before 5,500 fans, the Richmond team won the A.C.A.L. championship by holding a determined Highlander eleven to a 6 to 6 tie. The game was played in a strong wind and a drizzling rain. Richmond gained most of her yardage during the first half and scored her touchdown in the second quarter. The Oilers scored on a long pass that netted them about 30 yards. The try for conversion was smothered by the entire Piedmont forward wall. Richmond tried for field goals in the second and third quarters, but both attempts failed. The Clansmen began to march in the third period, but they were stopped upon reaching the Richmond one-foot line. The Oilers kicked out, and Piedmont retaliated with a pass from McCann to Witter to the Richmond eleven-yard line. Rutledge then passed to Henshaw for the Clan score. Rutledge's placekick for the conversion barely missed when the ball struck inside the right-hand upright.
